DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-11 are in the application.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 4-11 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim can not depend from other multiple dependent claims. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claims have not been further treated on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

4. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jaynes et al (5,504,342).

Looking to Jaynes et al, claim 1 is anticipated in that it only positively recites “a handrail” [figs. 1-5] for the intended use of a tarpaulin, “having a handlebar” [10,30,30]. Beyond that, the claim merely recites that the handlebar “can be held between two bushes”. Although the “bushes” are not positively recited, even if they were, the evidence of Jaynes et al meets the limitation by showing two bushes [18, 18’, 36]. And since the “bushes” are not positively recited, the recitation of them “each having a screw thread” is not a positive recitation but merely a statement of intended capability of combination with the bushes [18, 18’, 36]. Once again, although not required by the claim, the evidence of Jaynes et al also show “screw threads” [fig 3; 22; also shown in fig. 2 and 5]. It is notoriously well known to one with ordinary skill in the art that one function of screw threads is to secure. As such, a screw can go through multiple layers especially when one layer is merely a cloth. The claim recites that for the non-positively recited screw thread they have the capability of being “inserted through the tarpaulin cloth in order to fasten them to the tarpaulin” and “with which the be affixed to the tarpaulin frame”. The claim does not require the structure of the tarpaulin (cloth), bushes, screw threads, nor the tarpaulin frame. It also does not recite “how” the screws are to be inserted through the cloth. Also, making note of claim 2, if the “bushes” were positively recited the evidence of Jaynes et al also happens to show “the bush [18, 36] has a fastening arm [fig. 3; 20] on which the screw thread [22] is arranged.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 9/23/2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Jaynes does not show a handrail for a tarpaulin. As noted in the Office action, the language in the claims still addresses a functional capability of the structure recited. Clearly, the handrail of Jaynes can be attached to a tarpaulin with screws. The language in the claims has to be more specific to the structure disclosed.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
